GOULD LOSES TWO 2-1 GAMES IN WEEK

South Paris 2—Gould 1
Gould lost a heart-breaker when they visited South Paris last Friday, 2-1. The game, one of the fastest school games ever played in the state, went along scoreless until the ninth. Both pitchers were getting good backing and were performing quite capably themselves.

In the ninth Gould squeezed across what looked like a mighty important run when Amato reached on an error, then after he had stolen second, Robertson singled cleanly to center field for the run. However, South Paris both received and made breaks for themselves in the last of the ninth. The action was delayed until French had grounded out to Coolidge and Pihlman had done the same to Robertson, making two outs. Rosenberg lifted a long foul fly to Reid in left field which Reid had in his hands but dropped as he neared the steep bank there; then Rosenberg singled cleanly and Prince came to bat. He hit a ground ball to Robertson who threw to Young on first for what should have been the final out and the ball game. However, as Prince neared the bag he put his head down and plowed over "Archie" forcing him to drop the ball. This allowed Prince to go to second and Rosenberg to third. Here it seemed wise to walk Stearns, a strong left handed hitter, and pitch to the next man. The South Paris board of strategy crossed us up by inserting a pinch hitter, Brown, who singled sharply into center field, scoring runners from second and third. Thus Gould lost what would have been their second one-run victory over a favored South Paris team.

Fryeburg 2—Gould 1
Gould participated in their fourth straight tight ball game dropping a 2-1 decision to Fryeburg Academy. This game was well played but lacked some of the enthusiasm of the South Paris game.

McInnis held their hard-hitting team in check allowing them only seven hits and one earned run. In the second Doughty singled and scored on Haley's double to left. Coolidge scored Gould's one run in the second also when he tripled to deep right and tallied as Young was being thrown out at first. Gould lost another valuable opportunity in the fifth when Morton singled and went all the way to—continued on last page

According to standard warning practice the whistle blasts last two minutes so it may be that more than three blasts will be sounded. All places must be blacked out immediately. One short blast of the siren is the all clear signal.

Rural sections will also be notified by 10 short rings on the telephone lines and the all clear signal is to be one long ring.

A practice blackout is expected this week and the local authorities are hoping for full cooperation.

GOULD ACADEMY HOST TO COUNTY TRACK TEAMS

On Saturday, May 23, track teams of Oxford County will meet at Gould Academy for their Annual Track and Field Meet. The affair is scheduled to start promptly at 1:30 p. m. with Rumbold, last year's champions, Fryeburg Academy, Mexico High School, Norway High School and Gould Academy competing.

The local track team is favored to come through to unseat Rumbold this year as they have already defeated them in a triangular meet with the Bates Freshmen. Mexico too has gone down before the Gould track men. Fryeburg and Norway as yet have not been tangled with, but as Norway is sending a very limited squad, it leaves only Fryeburg as a "dark horse" opponent.

The meet will include the same 12 events that have always made up the Oxford County track Meet. They include the 100 yd. dash, the 220, 440, mile, half mile, 120 yd. low hurdles, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot put, discus, and javelin. Ribbons will be awarded to winners of the first four places in each event and a team trophy to the school winning the championship games.

Check These "Trouble-Spots" To Avoid Plowing Breakdowns, N. Y. State Expert Advises

KEEP 'EM SHINING! Soil clings to a rusty plow, causing excessive draft and fuel-waste. Clean off rust and rub share with oil every evening. When not in use, plow should be covered with thick coating of heavy grease, or a rust proof oil.

ADJUST CAREFULLY! Colters and jointers should be kept in careful adjustment. A colter that leans sideways will crowd the plow. A wobbly colter permits trash to wedge between jointer-point and colter.

LUBRICATE TWICE DAILY! Grease colter-bearings and wheel-bearings twice a day with a good quality chassis lubricant. Cheap cup-grease is too easily squeezed out or washed out of the vital friction breakdowns.

Agriculture

In this day of mechanized farming and all-out farm production, one of the most serious problems confronting any farmer is machinery breakdown. It is probably safe to say that over a million dollars worth of crops are lost every year through unexpected work hold-ups.

Fortunately, most breakdowns can be averted if proper attention is given to the few "trouble spots" that do most of the damage. Our experience with all kinds of farm machinery and lubricants, has shown that the "trouble spots" pictured here deserve particular attention during the plowing season.

Frequent and heavy lubrication of farm machinery is vital. Over-lubrication costs very little, while under-lubrication usually results in costly repair bills. Since dirt and and grade of oil—changed according to engine manufacturers' specifications.

CHANGE OIL REGULARLY: Dirt entering your tractor's crankcase, makes frequent oil changes vital. Don't economize with cheap oil! Tractors, even more than automobiles, need top quality motor oil that stands up to the punishing heat of powerful engines. Oil Filters protect engines against grit and sludge—only when the filter element is replaced as soon as it darkens. Lubrication is assured by proper quality.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

Today most minds are centered on the job of winning this war—and that is one of the biggest jobs that has come to any nation in the history of mankind. At the same time, many men are thinking of that day when the war will finally end and the equally vast task of reconstruction must be started. They are laying plans for this world of the future, based on the hope that ways can be found to make international peace and prosperity real and permanent, instead of temporary and illusory.

All Americans know what happened after the last war. It was the position of President Wilson that this nation must accept the responsibility of leadership in world affairs, and he believed that the League of Nations was the proper instrument for the discharge of that responsibility. For good or ill, Mr. Wilson could not win the American Congress and the American people to his side. He literally burned himself out on a national speaking tour which proved to be an utter failure. This nation was sick of internationalism and war. It wanted only to mind its own business and to manage its own affairs. It had little interest in what went on beyond its borders.

Now the situation is vastly different in many ways. The Atlantic Charter commits this nation to help in the rebuilding of all the world. The Charter, in principle, has been almost universally approved. Indeed, the main criticism of it is that it does not go far enough. And, perhaps more important still, the political opposition to the Administration has formally placed itself on record with a policy which is a far cry from the "traditional isolationism" of yesteryear.

At the end of the last war, the strongest figure in the Republican party was the able Senator Lodge who did more than any other man to block Congressional approval of the League of Nations. Now the dominant figure in the party is a man whose viewpoint is genuinely internationalist, Wendell Willkie.

It was Mr. Willkie who carried the torch at the recent meeting of the Republican Policy Committee, and who succeeded in having passed resolutions which completely embody his ideas.

The other day Mr. Willkie made a speech, in which he said this: "It will be a new idea to many Americans that the United States in the future may need help from other nations. But we do need help if our ideas of personal liberty, of justice, of equality, of hope and growth and expansion, are to survive. We can keep America to ourselves, though I doubt if the American we keep to ourselves would be free. But we cannot keep freedom to ourselves. If we are to have freedom, we must share freedom.... The day of vast empire is past. The day of equal peoples is at hand...."

"Let us keep that aim shining before us like a light—a light for the people of Europe, for the people of Africa, for the people of Asia, for the people of South America, and for the people of our own beloved land."

As Time put it, "Seldom before had any U. S. Leader said, in such clean, earthy words, that the freedom on which this nation was founded means freedom and dignity for all people of all lands."

Precisely what we must do in the future is in the laps of the gods. Many think that there will be great economic adjustments, and we must find ways to help other peoples attain the means as well as the desire to buy part of the incredible flood of goods that our post-war factories will be able to produce. They think there will be an end to thinking that peoples of another creed and color are inferior to peoples of our creed and color. They think, in short, that a real start may be made toward the goal of the brotherhood of Man that Philosophers have dreamed about for 20 centuries.

In any event, all of us are now getting a new and far more accurate idea of the character of other peoples. We used to think of the Chinese in terms of incredible poverty, disease and ignorance—now we have learned that the Chinese are brave and intelligent and are led by men who are outstanding in any company. We used to think of the Russians as spineless serfs—and now the Russians have held the greatest military machine the world has ever

DRAMA.....POWER.....AND DREAMS

Bonnie May managed our village beauty shop for five years, and many women insist her permanents were the best they ever had. But today the beauty shop has a new manager. Bonnie May is doing riveting in an airplane factory in a war-industry city 80 miles away.

"It's wonderful," she says. "I've never enjoyed working so much. Of course, I do the same thing over and over again. But I don't mind. I'm part of a group of men and women who are making planes that are necessary to our Army. So I feel important, even if I only add rivets. I get a big thrill every time I see one of the finished planes that I've helped build! It certainly beats shampooing and setting hair, and I feel sorry for women who have to keep on doing ordinary jobs in stores or offices or even at home when so many exciting things are going on!"

What's happening to Bonnie May is that she's getting a new understanding of the meaning of modern industry. Industry had seemed to her, as it had to the majority of women, something far away, quite outside the orbit of her own life. It was a business made up of wheels and pulleys and gears and noise and confusion, she thought—of no interest to dainty, well-dressed girl until its finished products, nicely wrapped in cellophane appeared on the shelves of a Main Street store!

For years Bonnie May was spared the workaday aspects of this great driving force that was changing not only her own beauty shop business and her home but the whole world. But she was also deprived of the drama—the stimulating power—the daring dreams of the vast wonder working machine that is modern industry, developed largely by the skill and vision and hard work of American men.

But the day of woman's industrial innocence is passing. When millions of girls like Bonnie May begin punching time clocks in hundreds of factories, the 20th century method of production, on which our 20th century way of life depends, will mean something to women as a whole.

Never again will the work that goes on in the factories of the world be a mystery to us. It will never again seem to be too complicated, or too hard, or too dirty for women to have a part in—something for men only. Because of this wartime experience there will be greater understanding, greater appreciation, greater cooperation between the men and women of America.

known, and perhaps saved all the United Nations from defeat and disaster. We used to think of Australia as a rather uninteresting and unimportant "island" far away in the Pacific—and now we have learned that the Australians are people very like ourselves, proud and embattled, and that the defense of Australia is vital to our own defense. So it goes. Whatever comes, the average American is obtaining an infinitely better knowledge of the world and the peoples who inhabit it than his forebears ever had.

There is small chance of the President's anti-inflation program passing exactly as he proposed it. It will be adopted in general, however.

It is unlikely that Congress will accept the $25,000 ceiling on incomes. But some sort of limit will be imposed. Biggest battle of all may come over the President's ideas on agricultural prices—the farm bloc is extremely strong, and it swings a great deal of weight when the votes are counted.

What are props? Well, in the photographic sense the term of practically any existing or future object. But generally speaking props for informal portraits are only ordinary items found in any home. ### PROPS IN PORTRAITURE

Simple props, such as the tennis racquet and visor worn by this attractive model, will help to make your informal portraits successful.

Informal portraits sometimes fall because of two reasons: first, the subject may be one of those people who just can't appear at ease before a camera; second, the subject has nothing to do and thus appears artificially posed. There's not too much we can do about the first situation, but it's easy to remedy that second condition. Just introduce a few "props."

What are props? Well, in its photographic sense the term covers practically any existing or fancied object. But generally speaking, props for informal portraits include only ordinary items found in almost any home. For instance, in this week's illustration the tennis equipment could well come under the heading of props. Perhaps the subject is a tennis player—it doesn't make much difference—because she looks as if she had been playing. And the props in the picture are almost totally responsible for that effect. Take them away, and you'd have nothing but an ordinary picture of a rather attractive girl.

Clothes, although most of us don't think of them that way, come under the heading of props, just as do books and chairs. Different clothes will create different moods in informal portraiture. For instance, consider how changed our tennis player might appear in an evening gown. Take advantage of that fact the next time you picture people. Show them in several different types of clothes.

You'll find it pays to assemble a grab bag of different types of props for use in informal portraiture. Include sports' equipment, books, drapes, different types of hats, etc. It will help to make your informal portraiture more interesting to your subject, as well as to you.

YOUR CAR

How to Get the MOST out of It

KEEP IT LUBRICATED

The most important single thing to remember, if you want to get the most out of your car, is: keep it lubricated. If a front wheel lacked a bearing, you wouldn't think of running your car until a new one had been installed. Oil or grease is really a kind of frictionless bearing. It is structurally a part of your car. But how often do you check to see if it is on the job?

Best advice to the car owner is: follow religiously the instruction chart that came with your car. If a service man does your greasing, make sure he doesn't overlook anything. It is also important to be sure that the proper lubricant is used at the proper point.

Most trouble is caused by lack of lubrication, but it is possible to overdo it. Too much lubricant on the front wheel bearings may result in saturated brake linings; too much oil in the generator, starter, distributor, etc., may work into the wrong places.

Doing a good lubricating job is no simple matter. It means knowing what oil to use and where to use it. Using the wrong oil is almost as bad as putting in a repair part that doesn't fit. Don't forget that good lubricants are a lot cheaper than repairs and replacements.

Note: This is the seventh in a series of articles based on the book, Automobile User's Guide, published by the Customer Research staff of General Motors. Next article: Crankcase Oil.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

I rummage around considerably in the papers and I see the same palaver taking place now, all over. It is giving the war a run for its money. We can get up a bigger sweat over nothing than any nation.

The furore is about "slacks." But the way folks snicker when chunky mama breezes by in her seersuckers, is not being fair. When I can do so, I always put in an order for the ladies. Instead of snickering and making jokes, we should feel sorry. Maybe mama has no mirror to her name. Think of it. No full-length mirror. We should give her the benefit of the doubt and muffle our snicker.

"Slacks" is what they call 'em. That was the first mistake. They got people to wondering—and the talking. I have scanned no slack yet that you could say were slack except maybe it was around the cuff. And cuffs will soon be taboo. And recent-like I saw an ensemble of slacks, high heels and a apron over all. It was quite novel.

But in due course grandma and the girls will get hep—and we again be as sweet as ever dolly up like the iceman or the village blacksmith.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA

OUR THE NETHERLANDS ALLIES:

WHEN THE HISTORY of World War II is finally written, it will be recorded that the first bit of foreign soil on which U. S. troops went into action against the Axis was Java, most populous and important of the Netherlands East Indies (see map below for comparison with the U. S.). The Netherlands thus was the first United Nation actually to receive U. S. aid in men and ships, and inadequate though this help was, it underlines the Netherlands' importance as a Pacific ally.

The Battle of Java has since been lost, after Dutch resistance there gave the United Nations time to organize for the defense of Australia. On many of the islands, however, resistance continues, and it may be months before the Japs can consider their conquest complete. And even then, the Japanese will not have what they wanted, for the Dutch, in retreating, are systematically wrecking everything that might be of use to the Japanese war machine.

OIL WELLS, REFINERIES and storage tanks worth more than $500,000,000 have already been destroyed by Dutch to prevent their capture by Japs.

ALSO WRECKED have been rubber factories, mining equipment, docks and radios. Half-white, half-native government (left) stuck to their posts in Java.

LUXURIOUS forests and rich fields cover most of the 733,000 sq. miles of the Indies, now one-third Jap-occupied.

RESISTANCE by Dutch and Indonesian forces continues on many islands, especially mountainous Sumatra and New Guinea, where Japs' mechanized equipment is less effective.

Affects Everybody

The rationing of tires and gasoline should remind everyone of the importance of conserving every resource to the utmost. Only a few will be able to replace their tires and the use of motor fuel will be much restricted.

An obvious lesson: buy as near home as you can.

Consistent patronage of your home dealers will enable you to secure better service; will encourage your local merchant to carry more complete stocks; and will result in noticeable travel economies for yourself.

In Loving Memory of Our Mother,

Rose Billings Brown
She always leaned to watch for us,
Anxious if we were late,
In winter by the window,
In summer by the gate.

And though we mocked her tenderly,
Who took such foolish care,
The song road home would seem more safe.

Because she waited there,
Her thoughts were all so full of us,
She never could forget,
And so I think that where she is,
She must be waiting yet.

Waiting 'till we come home to her,
Anxious if we are late,
Watching from Heaven's window,
Leaning from Heaven's gate.

third on McInnis' perfect bunt down the first base line only to have the umpire rule it a foul ball.

The Fryeburg pitcher followed the ball down the line and finally sensing that the ball was not going foul attempted a play but couldn't pick the ball up, instead pushing it outside the line. This would have placed men on first and third with none out and the top of the batting list coming up.

RESUSCITATOR HERE FOR COMMUNITY USE

Through the courtesy of the Bingham Associates Fund a resuscitator has been placed in Bethel for the use of the community in case of its need. The instrument is designed to be used either as a resuscitator, rhythmically filling the lungs with oxygen and then emptying them, or as an inhalator, allowing a victim able to breathe to get high concentrations of oxygen in order to bring about more rapid revival.

The instrument will be available through Dr. Lawrence's office for use anywhere in this vicinity where the need arises. In the event a person stops breathing, as in suffocation, drowning, electric shock or poisoning from carbon monoxide or other gases, artificial respiration should be immediately started and continued until the resuscitator can be brought to the scene. This machine does not replace the need for artificial respiration, but does add to the likelihood of survival when breathing stops as a result of accident.
